

Contents

Foreword Cilly Kugelmann Hubertus Gaßner	13	“Will I be the Herzl (or Ahad Ha’am) of a nu [!] Jewish Art???” R. B. Kitaj’s Manifestos of Diasporism Inka Bertz	179
1 A Fragmented World	17	The Skeptical God-Seeker Michal Friedlander	187
2 Catalonia as Trigger to Diaspora	49	“I Accuse!” Kitaj’s “Tate-War” and an interview with Richard Morphet Cilly Kugelmann	195
3 Kitaj — Analyst of His Time	55	My Years with Kitaj Tracy Bartley	203
4 A Circle of Friends	65
R. B. Kitaj—Secret Jew and Avowed Diasporist Eckhart Gillen	83	10 Self Retreat	209
Warburgian Artist: R. B. Kitaj, Edgar Wind, Ernst Gombrich, and the Warburg Institute Edward Chaney	97	Biography	251
Letters to a Young German Painter Martin Roman Deppner	105	List of exhibited works	253
Reflecting on the Jewish Condition in the Kaffeehaus David N. Myers	113	Citations	256
		Authors	259
		Acknowledgments	259
		Bibliography	260
5 Gallery of Character Types	121
6 The Secret and the Public Jew	127
7 Distorted Bodies	143
8 Obsessions	153
9 The Library as a Diasporic Home	171		